What never done with this Brachygraphy
Must words vanish, or into Atoms fly!
Care must be taken lest Syllables next go
When severall thousands dwindle at one blow
Though such A number's lost, we retaine some
And that's our comfort (Ne plus ultra's) come.
Our feare is past we will no more contend,
But strive to give this Art its due commend,
Were it but more diffus'd and better knowne
All blind obstruse Ideas would sink downe
And rusty Antiquaries would not fix
Their minds on doating Hiroglyphick's
The Simbols of this Art if that were all
Would cause old China's Characters to fall
The learned scarce from those could extract sence
When Short hand carries its one evidence,
Its no less comprehensive, yet so plaine
To condescend to A Plebian brain
Yet here the learned with delight may sit
And find Imploy for the Acutest wit
The ingenious Arches and those pithy rules
Surpass the learning of the common schooles.
Sermon's this Art transferrs, its oft known
The Country reap's what's in the Citty sown;
The Sacred pulpit is not its confine
The genrall good's this Arts main designe
To Attempt its praise is folly, and be brief:
Silence in this will be our sole relief.
Short-hands compleat thy port at lenght's attaind
Then aquiesce for now thy requiem's gaind.

To all my Scholars in London Brisloll and Exeter and the Intelligent Reader.

Considering the publick benefit that might accrue, by the delatation of the knowledg of this Art, at present solely confined (in its full latitude) in my owne breft my other various concerns impeding my constant personal attendance upon mature deliberation I am induced to expose this Compleation, to the publick view, that, though I am circumscribed as to time and place; this may with freedome at any time take its progress being desirous to ware my owne emolument, and postpone my particular interest to the general good in pursuance of which I shall remove two stumbes at which, (experience informs me) some have stumbled and denied themselves the great advantage of this Art; The first is it spoyles their long hand. I Answer it is a great mistake can one hand of a different letter in position transposition and connexion, prejudice another? a person may with greater reason averre, that he which writes Court-hand, shall marr, and render himselfe incapable of being an Artist in Italian or any other usual hand: if this had the least graine of weight, it's strange that so many eminent Professors of Calligraphy should be such Proficients in this: the true cause is concealed, it is not Short hand but an habitual and affected swiftness, in the other, that ruines faire writing, and often confounds sence. The other is, it is burdensome to the memory. this requires no answer, but I shall A little comply. can the memories Remembrancer instill oblivion? can the sun's concentred beams divert it's Influence? confess I will it charges it with A little that it may discharge much it deposites A mite in it's treasury that it may from thence disburse talents: it useth the memory that it may Improve it, it is known that one small Idœa being but represented to the phantasy A great part of A discourse is often recollected; it helps the memory extreamly, and (unless there be A real Art) beyond any thing. the objections are frivolous, I shall desist and appeal to the skilfull in this Art. Nothing but Ignorance and Idleness raise these scruples, whereas Industry and resolution meet no Impediments You that have been my Scholars and severall thousand others do highly value the worth and utility of it and for the Courteous Reader (if any thing seem difficult to him in this booke) I shall Instruct and give him full satisfaction in all things gratis, that this Art may be the more diffused: which is the greatest acquisition he aimes at who is y^r^ Sa: Botley

Note that these rules alone brings you to write any manner of discourse without any more help and for the Simboliall Characters you need not fear to get them by heart, for do but write them and you have them; For I Affirm) they are so far from burdening, that they teach the art of Memory more exact than the Egyption Hyeroglyphicks — Note that your times of learning be just in morning and the last work at night by which you will retaine it fresh in your Memory and that you learn but a little at one time and that perfectly never more than one houre at a time to write, for when you take it by little and little it comes easily; learn to make fine Penns and small Characters you must write constantly by rule never mix long hand with Short, but if at first you cannot write all be shure you write Sentences and read them soon after you have writ them; let your book be but 2 inches
